Overview

This unit of competency specifies the mandatory work health and safety training required prior to undertaking construction work. The unit requires the person to demonstrate personal awareness and knowledge of health and safety legislative requirements in order to work safely and prevent injury or harm to self and others.

It covers identifying and orally reporting common construction hazards, understanding basic risk control measures, and identifying procedures for responding to potential incidents and emergencies. It also covers correctly selecting and fitting common personal protective equipment (PPE) used for construction work.

This will give students the “white Card” which will allow them onto commercial work sites.

White cards

You need a white card for construction work. A white card (or general construction induction card) is required for workers who want to carry out construction work.

People who need a white card include:

- site managers, supervisors, surveyors, labourers and tradespeople
- people who access operational construction zones
- workers whose employment causes them to routinely enter operational construction zones.

When applying for an Owner Builder licence, you will be required to provide a copy of your plastic white card. Please note that the Victorian Building Association (VBA) accepts ONLY plastic cards. Paper Statements of Attainment are not accepted.

Assessment Methods

A wide variety of assessments methods will be employed to assess student competence in each unit. These include but are not limited to:

- project/Assignment
- Written Test
